CHAPTER XXVI.

It was the first of May, and the annual reunion of the Confederate veterans was being held in Atlanta. It was the gala week of the year. Every town and city in the south sent its official representatives and its maids of honor. The hotels were crowded and the streets thronged with an incongruous multitude wearing badges of ribbon. Southern generals and their wives and daughters were holding gay receptions. Everybody was welcome; hands were extended to people from the north as well as from the south. Shouts filled the air when the carriage of an ex-Confederate officer passed through the streets. The bands played "Dixie." Men, scarred and maimed, stood on the street corners and in the bars and hotels and told war stories and sang the praises of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson. From the public buildings, the clubs, hotels and carriages floated the American flag. It hung everywhere, but it was never applauded and yet never hissed. It was beautiful to look upon and stood for peace, patriotism and prosperity. The southerners would have admitted this, and yet there was another beauty dearer to their weary memory—a beauty for which they had fought grimly and lost.

Mrs. Cranston, Lydia and Kitty Cosby were visiting the Dunleighs, a Virginia family who lived in one of the best houses in Peachtree street. George Buckley was in the city, but he had gone only to attend to the work of inspecting the books of a broker who handled considerable grain and cotton for the Darley house.

The broker, Mr. Harry Stone, was a young man of high social standing in Atlanta, and he had formed a strong friendship for George and extended the hospitality of the best club in the place to him and offered to introduce him to his friends, but George refrained from accepting. He was too fine a man to feel at ease in general society so early after his father's disgrace, and Stone understood this and did not press those things upon him.

"I see you've got some stunning girls up your way," Stone remarked as George sat at a desk in the corner of the room "checking up" the books. "It's reported down here that our governor runs up that way every chance he gets."

"Yes, they are all right," Buckley answered briefly.

"She's a Miss Cranston, I understand," ran on Stone. "I've heard my grandmother speak about the family in Virginia. She's visiting the Dunleighs, and I guess I'll meet her while she's here. You know her, of course?"

"Yes, we are friends," George said simply.

"I've never seen her," said the broker, "but, judging from her picture, she must be good looking. However, one can't tell about that. The pictures in the newspapers are always bad."

"In the newspapers?" said George, in surprise.

"Why, yes; it's in both the papers today, along with an account of the reception the governor is giving to her and her party at the mansion tonight. It's to be awfully swell. I'm not going. In fact, he and I don't get on. The truth is I belong to a little club of young Americans that tried to snow him under in the last election, but we got left. He had too big a pull with the ring. He used to be civil to me, but he snarls like a possum when we meet now. He can't forget an injury. Did you ever see him?"

"Oh, yes," said George. "He's been up our way often."

"Oh, of course; I'd forgotten. They say he's not been having exactly smooth sailing up at Darley either, but it looks a little like he's making more headway now."

"How is that?" asked Buckley, his blood running cold, his heart sinking.

"Why, the reception, you know. That looks a little like she's giving in, don't you think? But I may be dead wrong. She may want to make that friend of hers, that Miss Cosby, have a good time, and the general run of girls would consider it sheer madness to lose a chance like that. Why, it's to be the chief event of the reunion. Well, he's welcome to his glory; it won't last long; he will never get in again."

"You think not?" said George tensely.

"No; he'll never be able to pay the expense of another campaign. He ruined what little law practice he had when he went into politics, and now he's a bankrupt."

"A bankrupt?" George exclaimed.

"Why, I thought he had unlimited means."

"In a pig's valise," laughed Stone. "I am intimate with the cashier of a certain bank in this town and I had it straight that Telfare's got up the last bit of collateral he can raise for money he can't repay. Why, he had to beg the bank for a little raise to give this reception. Do you know, I suspected he was trying to marry for money. May I ask if this Miss Cranston is an heiress?"

"She's an only child," said Buckley, reluctant to continue the conversation further, "and her father is fairly well off."

"Perhaps," said Stone, "he's really left about her."

"That must be it," George replied, and he closed the conversation by going to work.

By nightfall his task was finished, and he could have caught a train for Darley, but he felt a strange, half morbid disinclination to leave. He repaired to his hotel, changed his clothing and went down to the crowded dining room, but the very gayety on every hand irritated him. He had no appetite for what was before him. All around him, at private tables, were gay parties of young people in evening dress. The music of a fine orchestra came in from the rotunda. The air was filled with the perfume of flowers. Never had the burden of his birth felt so heavy, never had he so keenly longed for the unattainable. He was in the lowest dregs of despair; he had begun to pity himself. Everybody else was having a holiday; no holiday could come to him while his own father was bearing the scourge of the law, while the only things he craved were eluding his grasp.

A little warmth came to his cold heart over the thought that Lydia Cranston cared for him, but it was swept away by the icy fear that, despite her regard for him, she was even then striving philosophically to put him out of her life. That striving had begun with the acceptance of the reception in her honor. The next step would be the formal announcement of her engagement to the governor, and then she would begin to look upon Telfare as her future husband. George stifled a groan and rose and left the room. The thought was like the pangs of death. He went out into the streets and walked on and on, going he cared not whither, trying to kill the despair within him. Dark thoughts pursued him, but he threw them aside. He was a soldier fighting black adversity, and he would fight—fight to the end. He had been walking half an hour when he came to the spacious grounds of the Dunleigh home. A carriage stood at the door. It was waiting for her—her! In a short while she would emerge dressed for the reception. Could he not wait there on the street and see her? No, for it was a closed carriage, and she would be shut off from his view. But could he not, without being seen, get nearer the door through which she would have to pass? The grounds were unlighted, and there were many clusters and hedges of shrubbery. The gate of the drive was open. He stole in and found a rustic seat behind a hedge of rosebushes, where he could remain unseen. He had not long to wait. Mrs. Dunleigh and Mrs. Cranston came out and then Miss Cosby and Lydia. The two girls paused for a moment under the great swinging lamp that hung from the ceiling of the veranda. Buckley held his breath as he looked upon her. He had never seen her in complete evening dress before, and her rare beauty was a revelation to him. She seemed to be at once the girl he knew and adored and yet another who was quite a stranger to him.

The coachman was holding the carriage door open for her, and she swept down the steps and the door closed upon her. The hoofs of the mettlesome horses ground into the pebbled drive as they whirled her away. Gone from his sight into that of his despised rival! Buckley sank back on to the bench and clasped his cold hands. He remained there an hour and then slowly retraced his steps down the beautiful street. Soon the illumination at the executive mansion rose before him. The hum of many voices fell on his ear, blended with martial music. The trees on the lawn were hung with Chinese lanterns; from a balcony overhead attendants were setting off costly fireworks. On the very sky Telfare seemed to be recording his triumph over his conquered foe. George walked on past the mansion into the reveling mass of humanity that swarmed about the principal hotels.

CRUEL KU KLUX

They Take a Negro From Home and Beat and Shoot Him to Death.

Statesboro, Ga., Aug. 30.—Sebastine McBride, a negro man living near Port in the upper part of Bulloch county, was taken out of his house Saturday night by a mob of five men, carried to the woods, whipped severely and then shot, from the effects of which he died soon afterward. Before death came, however, he related to a number of white men and colored people the manner in which he was handled and told the names of three of his assailants. They were, according to his statement, Perry Barnes, Henry Barnes and Wesley Waters, all white men. The names of the others he did not seem to know. He said the men came to his house and haled him to the door. When it was opened the men came in with guns and held his wife at bay while they carried him away. After they had been gone some time his wife heard several guns fired. Some time in the night McBride returned to his house, badly beaten and shot in the back in several places. Several of the white neighbors were notified and went to see the negro and took his testimony. After his death Coroner D. W. Stanford was notified and held an inquest.

The killing was done quite a distance from this place and it was impossible to learn all the details of the crime. The verdict of the coroner's jury was obtained, however, and the sheriff has gone to arrest the persons named in the verdict of the jury.

Dynamite Under Preacher's House.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 30.—Dynamite was exploded under the house of a negro preacher at Adamsville, near the coal mines operated by the Tutwiler Coal and Iron company, but no one was seriously hurt. Part of the house was demolished. The negro preacher is said to have preached a sermon Sunday night advising the union men to return to work.

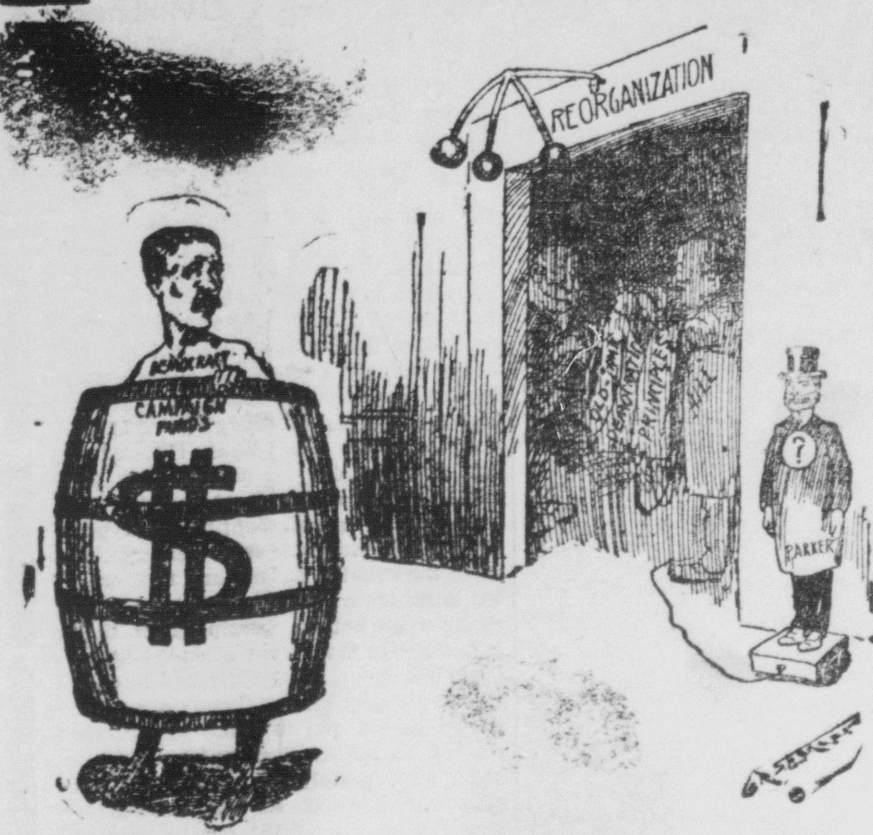

Rebels Have the Best of It.

Buenos Ayres, Aug. 30.—The Paraguayan insurgents are actively preparing for a land attack by foot and mounted forces. Serious resistance is not expected. Government troops at Asuncion are freely deserting. Their rations are now reduced to three biscuits daily. The country is almost entirely dominated by the insurgents.

Caused by Dependency.

Detroit, Aug. 30.—Major F. E. Eltonhead, late of the 21st and 24th regiments of United States Infantry, a veteran of the Indian and Philippine wars, and a member of the Detroit club, committed suicide in his rooms at the Lathrop apartments by shooting himself through the mouth. Dependency was the cause of the act.

A POOR SUBSTITUTE FOR GOOD CLOTHES.

TOWN IN FLAMES

Binang, in Luzon, Destroyed and One Hundred Persons Perish.

THOUSANDS HOMELESS

Conflagration in Philippine City Results in Shocking Loss of Human Life.

Government Has Gone to the Aid of the Suffering and Homeless Survivors.

Manila, Aug. 30.—The city of Binang in Laguna province, Island of Luzon, has been destroyed by fire. One hundred persons perished in the flames and 5,000 were rendered homeless. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The government is furnishing shelter and food to the people made destitute by the fire.

According to the census of 1896 Binang had a population of 7,358.

A MIXED SITUATION

Speculation Aroused Over New York's Gubernatorial Possibilities.

New York, Aug. 30.—On the eve of the city primaries there is a great deal of uncertainty about the Republican nomination for governor of New York. Some men are beginning to suspect that Governor Odell has been in earnest in the declarations that he has often made that he did not know who would be named. Three men only are now talked about, Timothy L. Woodruff, Lieutenant Governor Higgins, and Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University. Mr. Woodruff is the most active candidate and he believes he is going to win. Governor Odell does not share that confidence, which probably means that Odell is not for the Brooklyn man. Although Governor Odell has declared from the beginning that he has no candidate, and asserted that it would be an open convention, it is not believed that he has ever thought it would be "open" for Woodruff.

Peace Maker Was Slain.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—The stockyards strike was the indirect cause of a murder here. Thomas Osborne, a colored man, and a white man whose name is unknown, were arguing about the strike, when the white man called Osborne a strike breaker. A fight started, and Thomas Dillon, another white man, attempted to act as peace maker. Osborne attacked him with a knife, wounding him badly in the back of the neck, and he died in ten minutes. Osborne was arrested.

He Failed to Reappear.

Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 30.—E. C. Stahlman, vice president of the Banner Publishing company, news editor of the Evening Banner and day correspondent of the Associated Press, was drowned in the Cumberland river nine miles above here, yesterday afternoon. Mr. Stahlman was cruising up the river in his gasoline launch when the propeller refused to work. He dived under the launch to remedy the trouble and failed to reappear.

Book Agent Fatally Assaulted.

Zanesville, Ohio, Aug. 30.—William G. Tanner, aged sixty-two, a book agent, was found unconscious in a cornfield eight miles east of Zanesville yesterday afternoon. Turner is suffering from a fractured skull and will probably die. His pockets had been ransacked. Chief of Police Arter of Zanesville and Sheriff Elliott and a posse of citizens are on the trail of suspects.

Ultimatum Against McCarren.

New York, Aug. 30.—The labor leaders of Brooklyn have served notice on State Chairman Cord Meyer that Senator McCarren would have to resign as chairman of the state executive

FRANK IGNORANCE

Russian Authorities Admit Ignorance of Conditions at the Front.

AMID INTENSE ANXIETY

They Are Awaiting Conclusive Information Regarding the Desperate Plight of Their Forces.

Gen. Kuropatkin's Situation at Liao Yang Little Better Than at Port Arthur.

Shanghai, Aug. 30.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grigovoi has been disarmed and the cruiser Askold will disarm today.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—The greatest uncertainty prevails regarding the actual situation at Liao Yang. There is intense anxiety for definite news from the front, but even the authorities are frankly ignorant as to whether or not the long expected decisive action will be fought at Liao Yang or further north.

It is possible that a great battle is even now proceeding, and there are many indications that such is the case. If this is so the fate of this year's campaign may be settled within forty-eight hours. At the same time opinion is almost equally divided, many believing that General Kuropatkin will not make a determined stand and that the Japanese will crack the shell only to find that the bird has flown.

One of the Russian press correspondents says that the fighting so far has been confined wholly to rear-guard actions. The Russian force is now concentrated in a series of exceedingly strong positions around Liao Yang, but the whole withdrawal was in accordance with a prearranged plan.

It is certain that the armies are now in closest touch. The Japanese are advancing in great force along both of the roads converging on Liao Yang, but the crucial question whether it is the main Russian army that is concentrating there to receive them, or merely a strong screen, has not been answered up to this date.

Much depends on the weather. It is possible that the recent rains may have made General Kuropatkin's withdrawal impossible, even if he so desired to withdraw, or that a further downpour may disarrange the plans of both sides; but the latest indications that the weather and the roads are improving should force a rise of the curtain within twenty-four hours.

Other Formidable Forts.

London, Aug. 30.—The London papers have numerous special dispatches from the far east, most of them dealing with the position of Port Arthur. It is pointed out that the Japanese tactics are very similar to those adopted by General Oyama in 1894, but that granting that the Japanese have penetrated as far as represented, which is considered doubtful, there still remain formidable forts to be silenced before a general assault is possible.

General Routkovsky Killed.

Liao Yang, Aug. 30.—The Russians lost 300 in killed and wounded during the retreat from Anshanshan, the Japanese making a forced march by night and overtaking the Russians at daylight. General Routkovsky was killed by the explosion of a shell.

Didn't Get a Reprieve.

Walker, Minn., Aug. 30.—William Chouard, the Cass Lake murderer, whose application for a reprieve was denied by the state supreme court at St. Paul, yesterday, was hanged after midnight this morning. Chouard killed his common-law wife, Dora Chouard, Jan. 4, at Cass Lake, by shooting her during a quarrel over a trivial matter.

Good Progress Reported.

Sinla, Br. India, Aug. 30.—It is understood here that the negotiations which are being conducted at Lhasa, Tibet, between the British mission and the Tibetan delegates for a treaty, are proceeding so satisfactorily that the mission is likely to leave Tibetan territory earlier than expected by the government.

Assassin Not Yet Tried.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 30.—The statement in these dispatches last week that Sasonoff, the assassin of Minister of Interior Von Plehve, had been sentenced to death proves to be incorrect. The question as to whether the assassin will be tried by courtmartial or by a civil court has not yet been decided.

They Object to Long Run.

Susquehanna, Pa., Aug. 30.—A strike of the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on the Erie railroad is probable on Sept. 1, it is said. If the company enforces the order to run passenger engines through from Jersey City to Susquehanna, 191 miles, without a change of crews.

Looking for Negro Outlaw.

Danville, Va., Aug. 30.—Police Officer J. J. Hall was shot and killed last night by Jack Dillard, a desperate negro outlaw in this state and North Carolina. Officers had been on the track of the negro for a week. A mob estimated at 1,000 men are now looking for the negro.

Mrs. L. C. Glover, Vice-President Milwaukee, Wis., Business Woman's Association, is another one of the million women who have been restored to health by using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was married for several years and no children blessed my home. The doctor said I had a complication of female troubles and I could not have any children unless I could be cured. He tried to cure me, but after experimenting for several months, my husband became disgusted, and one night when we noticed the testimonial of a woman who had been cured of similar trouble through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, he went out and bought a bottle for me. I used your medicine for three and one-half months, improving steadily in health, and in twenty-two months a child came. I cannot fully express the joy and thankfulness that is in my heart. Our home is a different place now, as we have something to live for, and all the credit is due to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Yours very sincerely, Mrs. L. C. GLOVER, 614 Grove St., Milwaukee, Wis." Vice President, Milwaukee Business Woman's Association.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

BUSY DAYS FOR FAIRBANKS

Vice Presidential Candidate to Be Given Little Rest.

Indianapolis, August 30.—Senator Charles Warren Fairbanks, as the Republican candidate for vice president, will get a taste of the strenuous life that comes to the man who has second place on the ticket. After his speech at Whitewater Junction, Vt., yesterday, where he opened his campaign, he took a train for Albany, N. Y., to make connections for Chicago, where he will arrive tonight. After a short conference there he will take another train for Marion, Kan., where he will arrive at 4 o'clock on the morning of Sept. 1. He will speak in the afternoon and leave for Kansas City for a speech the following night. Kansas City is 600 miles from Marion. Immediately after his Kansas City speech he will leave for Bath, Maine, a distance of nearly 2,000 miles. He will speak in Maine three or four days, going from there into Connecticut, New Jersey, Delaware and New York before coming West. The chances are that he will be called on to speak in nearly every state and that he will travel 50,000 or 60,000 miles within the next few weeks.

Several thousand lithographs of J. Frank Hanly, candidate for governor, have been received and are now being distributed by the Republican state committee. It will not be long, therefore, until the front windows of the homes of the Republican partisans will indicate that the campaign is in progress. According to plans that are now being mapped out, Mr. Hanly will be a very busy man during the next few weeks. W. H. Huffman, who is attending to the routing of the speakers after the assignments are made by Chairman C. C. Lyons of the speakers' bureau, said today that Hanly will speak in sixty counties. In many he will speak two and three times a day. It will not be possible for him to appear in every county in the time at his command, but after Monday he will speak every day except Sunday until the campaign closes.

It was learned today that Senator Albert J. Beveridge will probably open the campaign here Sept. 15, as the county committee would like to have him on that date. His secretary, Tom Shipp, expects him home about Monday. There are a large number of requests for speeches from him, but he will not be permitted to devote all his time to Indiana, as the national committee wants to send him into other states. Chairman Goodrich of the state committee said today that Senator Fairbanks will probably spend the last few days of the campaign in Indiana. Maybe he will close the fight here the night before the election. It is also likely that a special train will be chartered for a final tour of the state. From now on there will be much speaking on both sides.

The Marion club is arranging for its usual part in the campaign. It will make its first appearance Friday night at Marion, where Congressman Joe Cannon will speak. A special train has been chartered, and it is probable that several hundred Republicans will be in the party. The Marion club is probably the largest and most effective political club in the state. It will probably accompany Senator Beveridge to a number of places during the campaign.

Political Gossip.

The fourth district republican convention to nominate a candidate for congress will be at North Vernon tomorrow. The delegates from this township are Thomas Jones, F. H. Kasting, Ed McDonald and H. J. Berkshire. Several others will attend from this place.

Lincoln Dixon, democratic candidate for congress, and Geo. S. Pleasant, the district chairman, were in town today looking after political fences.

A few "trusties" among the democratic editors of Indiana were called to Indianapolis yesterday to tell their tales of woe to the Taggart machine. According to the Indianapolis Star they must have put up a strong talk for boodle. They know they are short on argument this campaign and seem to think money must do the talking.

THERE are several pieces of gravel road in Jackson county that should be repaved before winter. They have been in bad repair since the high waters last spring. They should be looked after right away. They have already been neglected too long.

JUDGE PARKER says that the silver question is no longer an issue, that his party was dead wrong on that issue in both of the Bryan campaigns. If memory serves us right Horatio Seymour, the democratic candidate against General Grant in 1868, asked the people to elect him president because he and his party had been wrong on the slavery question.

IN the fifty years of its existence the republican party has never changed its position on any policy it has ever advocated. On the other hand the democratic party has faced about on every great issue except the tariff, and on that issue the party is as certainly wrong as it was on the slavery question or the free silver issue. Is it any wonder that a large majority of first voters are aligning themselves with the republican party. Young men in these days are well educated in the history of their country, and know, without being told, as to the checkered career of the party of opposition.

NEAR Columbus. Charles Snodgrass, a farmer, was robbed last Sunday of $2,207. The house was entered during the afternoon while the family was away from home and the money, secreted in different places about the house, was hunted down and carried away. It was all the cash this farmer had and he was trusting no bank to keep it for him. He was attending to that himself. But the fact that he had such a sum of money about his house became known to a few among whom was a thief. This farmer made the same mistake that many another man has made. It is always a dangerous thing to let old tin cans and cigar boxes take the place of banks.

THE special election called for September 6 to vote on the matter of a bond issue of $37,500 for the purpose of building a new high school building on the north half of the Shields school block along side the old building is one of more than ordinary importance. That Seymour needs a new high school building is beyond question. A modern and well equipped building for the high school department has been needed in Seymour for many years. This fact must be apparent to most every one in the city. The advisability of locating the new building along side the old as proposed by the school board is questioned by some. There are those who are of the opinion that the new building should be clear away from the old building on some other lot and in a more central location. Others think the location as proposed is all right. On the question of location there are honest differences of opinion. But all the questions involved in this special election should be thoughtfully considered by every voter before election day. The responsibility at this time rests with the people. Think the matter over carefully and vote according to your best judgment.

CONUNDRUM OF ACCEPTANCE

What the Sage of Esopus Really Believes Remains a Mystery.

What Judge Parker would do or attempt to do if he were to be elected president, is little less an unknown quantity than it was before his speech of acceptance was given to the world. He would recognize the gold standard, and he repeats that he would regard it as "firmly and irrevocably established," but this was known before he added the second word. He thinks he would like to have a reduction of the tariff, but he is not sufficiently sure of this to intimate what degree of reduction he would have upon any one item, nor does he indicate one item on which he would have the tariff duty changed in any way.

And the few explicit statements he does make emphasize the wisdom he manifests in what he fails to say. When he redeclares his belief that the gold standard is "firmly and irrevocably established," for instance, he shows that he is ignorant of a fact that exists in the minds of most voters at this stage of proceedings. Almost everybody else by this time knows that the gold standard lacks a good deal of being irrevocably established, and even he would probably be convinced of it if once he were called upon to deal with it.

So also he suggests that he would fix a time to haul down the flag in the Philippines, but he gives no hint of the year or the month or the time of day. On most things that he touches he leaves the reader to infer almost anything that he would like to infer, especially if the reader is seeking an excuse for casting a vote against the administration, but explicit statements in his speech of acceptance are almost as rare as in the silence that has prevailed for so long at Esopus.

In another explicit statement that he makes he shows his wisdom in avoiding such things as much as possible. For instance, he says that the tariff furnishes the trusts a market in the necessities of eighty millions of people, "practically excluding competition." On the same day that this speech was delivered came the announcement that an independent concern had taken away from the trust an order for 1,000 tons of steel plates.

The record shows that while what is known as the steel trust began business with the control of about eighty per cent. of the total output, in two years this had been reduced to fifty per cent. or less, due solely to competition here at home under this same protective tariff. The steel trust undertook to do business on the assumption expressed by this presidential candidate and competition soon forced it to reorganize and pursue its business on the assumption that it would have the liveliest sort—and even ruinous—competition if it attempted to maintain extortionate prices. About two years ago the price trust had the same experience. On window glass the duty always has been high. It is so now, it was so in the Wilson-Gorman bill and under the McKinley law and so on. Yet the combination known as the window glass trust has not been free from competition for years, and this competition has been of the keenest sort. Trust after trust has failed because it attempted to do business on an assumption similar to the one offered as statesmanship from this man at Esopus. Every one of them that has attempted this has either failed or been forced into the courts for reorganization on a different basis. If this man is fit to be a candidate for anything he knows this. Even casual attention to what has been going on in the courts of the land would have revealed this vital fact.

A Summer Cold.

A summer cold is not only annoying but if not relieved pneumonia will be the probable result by fall. One Minute Cough Cure clears the phlegm, draws out the inflammation, heals, soothes and strengthens the lungs and bronchial tubes. One Minute Cough Cure is an ideal remedy for the children. It is pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. A certain cure for croup, cough and cold. Sold by A. J. Pellens and W. F. Peter Drug Co.

CORTLAND.

The removals this week are C. M. Gottorf, Jacob Gottorf, Silas Baughman, Jas. Dixon and our worthy county clerk, John R. Tindler.

Homer Reed came over from Cincinnati last week to spend a few days and attend the family reunion. He is freeman in the yards at Cin. O.

Columbus Robertson sold a horse last week to a livery man from Seymour.

Sam Pickrel purchased two ponies from Dan Walker the first of last week.

Walla Hays is convalescing from a case of walking typhoid.

Several teams from Cortland are hauling gravel on the new roads north of town.

We noticed in "The Star," last week where a man was tearing up an English sparrow's nest and discovered a two-dollar bill in it. We can beat that. Will Richards of this neighborhood is the possessor of an old shiplaster twenty-five cent piece which he found in a sparrow's nest and which he accepted as part payment for rent due since the rebellion.

Thos. Bottorff has recently united with the Christian church at Honeytown.

Clover hulling has begun in this neighborhood. The yield is only moderate and the quality fair.

J. P. Van Cleve has employment with D. N. Fatout, of Indianapolis in the construction of gravel roads at Frankfort where he is pit boss.

Born to Willis Simmons and wife Wednesday Aug. 24, a 9 pound boy.

Clifford Jackson from Freetown has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Orrel Wheeler, the past week.

Uncle Geo. Findley is indisposed at the present writing.

The New Woman

Women Must Overcome the Talkee-Talkee Habit

ONE morning I went into several department stores. I went early "to avoid the crush." It was only a few minutes after the opening time. I hate to say it about women, but I found it almost impossible to get any woman clerk to attend to me. The girls were having their morning half hour of tittle tattle. Gabbie, gabbie, giggle, giggle! I went to the counter. I stood and waited, first in one department, then in another. Not a girl budged, though several undoubtedly saw me. Then I called to ask if anybody would wait on me. Those females glared at me for my presumption in interrupting their gossip. They had not seen one another since the evening before, and they were so burning wild and crazy to pour themselves out in gossip from their toes up that they were offended at being interrupted. They just had to empty out all they knew. When my pertinacity forced one to come to me, she waited on me in a snappish, impatient way, plainly to punish me for chopping her off in the customary morning gossip. That gossip was of clothes and men. In two departments where I went there were men clerks. I hate to say it again, but here every man was in his place, ready for business. Not a word was spoken by one of these men to another. They came forward at once as I approached and actually appeared to take an interest in serving me. They were polite and even kind. Their minds were on their work; there was nothing they considered of more importance than doing their duty. Their silence and politeness and attention to business were very soothing to the customers. If they talked little, they evidently were thinking, and it is safe to say every one of them was thinking how he could advance himself in business or learn more. Now, women will never advance to higher places or receive large salaries till they cease chattering and telling all they know and buckle down to their tasks. Incessant gabbie fritters away the intellect.

One has noted considerable mention of the "only" woman delegate to the Republican nominating convention. As a matter of fact, four women alternate delegates sat officially in that convention. In the case of Mrs. Charles A. Eldredge of Colorado Springs the principal delegate was absent, and Mrs. Eldredge voted in his place for the nominations of Roosevelt and Fairbanks. Thus for the first time, 1904, a woman voted on the nomination of a president of the United States. Let us not forget it.

They say that the romance is all dying out of Spain because now the Spanish maidens have to go to work. Good thing!

You would not believe it unless a reliable person like me told you, but I actually waked myself up out of sound sleep the other night saying (or was it something or somebody else saying to me? I cannot tell this). "Many men are less polished than their shoes." Is not that fine for a dream speech?

The will in most human beings is in a state of infantile feebleness. Women especially need to cultivate it. Its power to help us achieve is infinite. This is how to cultivate it: Before you say "Yes" or "No" concerning any matter think carefully, even if quickly; then make your answer and stick to it though the sky fall. Form a plan after thorough and intelligent consideration; then also stick to that so long as you live, if need be. Think what Helen Keller, A. B., blind, deaf and dumb, has achieved. There is something very like magic in persistently willing a thing to come to pass, especially if you don't talk about it too much. Gabbling concerning plans scatters our forces, often rouses opposing forces.

When women desire to imitate man's dress, why don't they begin at the only really useful section of his costume and make an adaptation of the garment that allows free use of the lower limbs?

Recently I had the pleasure of meeting Miss Ida Tarbell, the scientific writer of history and biography. She told me something of her preparation for her life work, and I discovered it had taken years of thought and study to fit this lady for doing the splendid work which has placed her at the head of American writers in her line. Thorough preparation—that is the secret of all achievement worth anything. Whatever we undertake we must learn all there is to be learned concerning it or we do not know our business.

When you send a newspaper to a busy person, desiring that person to read some special article, always mark that article conspicuously.

Here is another woman for her sex to be proud of. She is Mrs. Christine Ladd Franklin, LL. D., the eminent psychologist. Mrs. Franklin has been appointed lecturer on logic and vision at Johns Hopkins university. Higher honor than this can scarcely be attained in the scientific world.

WHEN USING

Front of camera removed, showing flat opening in the tube attached to the back of the lens, through which, as the lens revolves from side to side, the exposure sweeps over the film.

An ordinary limited-view camera, how many times you want to get into your picture just a little more than your camera will get on the plate. It may be an object that will make the view more artistic, or perhaps it is something that is really necessary to make the picture complete, but YOU WANT IT. If you place your camera farther back, you then reduce the size of the objects in your picture; besides, the difference in the point of view changes the whole picture. If you use a wide-angle lens you will get more in your picture, but the whole picture is changed by the violent perspective of the wide-angle of the lens. YOU HAVEN'T GOT WHAT YOU WANT.

If you get a larger camera, you merely get the same scene larger in size, but no larger in scope, and you have the expense of larger camera, larger plates, and extra weight to lug around.

There is a camera which will not only take the ordinary size of picture, but if you want to get more view on the sides (not more blank sky and out-of-focus foreground) you can make the photograph (the original one being 5x4) either 5x6, or 5x8, 5x10 or 5x12, and this camera, the only one which will do it, is the

AL-VISTA PANORAMIC CAMERA

The swinging and revolving lens does it—you press the button, and in an instant it records everything within its sweep of nearly 180 degrees—half a circle. If you owned a regular 10x12 camera, think of what you could save if, instead of using a full 15x12 plate every time, you could use only so much of a plate as you had need of for each individual picture, and could use the remainder for other views. That is just what you can do with an "AL-VISTA."

Suppose you had a Model "5-B," which takes pictures 5 inches wide, by from 4 up to 12 inches long; the exposures on your roll of film might be first 5x4, then 5x12, then 5x8, then 5x4, and so on, depending upon the length of each view you happened to want to take.

How often you find yourself on some high place, with a view just in front of you that would not be at all interesting as an ordinary camera would take it, but the whole sweep of which would make a delightful picture; you long for a camera which will record the whole. Prevent these chances of disappointment—these chances of taking views which none of your friends will have anything to equal—by getting an "AL-VISTA" Panoramic Camera.

"BEAUTIFUL WINONA."

INDIANA'S GREAT DAY.

Excursions via Pennsylvania Lines to that Pretty Resort.

With the opening of the season at Winona Lake, May 16th, the sale of excursion tickets over the Pennsylvania Lines to that attractive resort in Northern Indiana will begin. Every summer passed there by thousands has only increased their desire to return. On the golf links, the tennis courts, the baseball or cricket grounds, the croquet field, or boating on the lake, fishing, camping, swimming, driving, or attending recitals and lectures by world-famed personages in the auditorium—whatever the diversion may be, the associations are of that congenial sort conferred by good society. This resort is noted as the site of Winona Assembly and Summer School, attracting teachers and students from educational institutions of this and other countries.

Fifteen-day and season excursion tickets will be sold from ticket stations on the Pennsylvania Lines during the summer. For information about fares and times of trains, apply to local ticket agents, or to F. Van Dusen, Chief Assistant General Passenger Agent, Pittsburgh, Pa. Illustrated literature describing attractions of Winona Lake may be had for the asking. Address S. O. # DEFEAT HURT HIM

HAD LONG HELD OFFICE

After Thirteen Years Incumbency Treasurer Robinson Was Defeated in Spring Election.

Suicide by Hanging Has Followed a Period of Brooding Despondency.

Madison, Ind., Aug. 30.—Leander M. Robinson, city treasurer, committed suicide by hanging. Robinson, Republican, was defeated for re-election as city treasurer last spring by Charles A. Hillabold, Democrat, after the former had been elected by big majorities at every election for the last thirteen years. Ever since his defeat Mr. Robinson has been despondent.

Several weeks ago an expert was employed by the city council to examine the city books, but had not completed the work. Nothing has been made public as to the condition of the treasurer's books. Robinson was an Elk, a Red Man, an Odd Fellow, a Pythian, and a member of the Christian church, and he possessed the unbounded confidence of the community. He was a cripple, had an invalid son, and he lost his wife a few years ago. He was devoted to his family and friends.

SERIOUS LABOR RIOT

Strike Breakers at Hammond Brutally Beaten.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 30.—Fred Newell, an electrician in the employ of the G. H. Hammond Packing company, and Otto Morbeck, a strike-breaking butcher, were attacked by a crowd of strike sympathizers and severely beaten in the principal street of this city. Both are confined to their beds, and Morbeck's condition is serious. Newell is an ex-convict, formerly a candidate for mayor, and is a well-known politician. Morbeck was one of the organizers of the Hammond local of the butcher workmen, and was the first president of the union. The feeling against him is especially bitter on this account, and he was made the object of the mob's fiercest attack. The two men had made the rounds of local saloons, and were outspoken in their denunciation of the union. A crowd of unionists took after the men with cries of "Scab!" "Strike breakers!" and "Traitors!" The police did not interfere until the men were nearly unconscious, when they were taken into custody.

He Took Desperate Chances.

Clayton, Ind., Aug. 30.—J. Mark Black, a young business man of Jasonville, jumped from a Vandalia train as it was sweeping through West Clayton at fifty miles an hour, and was seriously injured. He was coming to visit his bride, whom he married two weeks ago, and did not know that the train on which he was riding made no stop.

Money Was Left Unguarded.

Columbus, Ind., Aug. 30.—Charles Snotzmeier, a farmer who lives three miles northwest of this city, was robbed of $2,207. The house was entered and ransacked in broad daylight and every cent of money in the place taken. Mr. Snotzmeier thinks he has a clue. The Snotzmeier family had gone away from home to spend the day.

Trespasser Fatally Shot.

Indianapolis, Aug. 30.—Warren Rummel lies at the city hospital with an even chance for life or death, as the result of a pistol shot fired by George E. Kuhlman. Kuhlman, according to his story, caught Rummel in his yard and the latter refused to leave. The shot was not fired until Rummel had made a move to strike him, Kuhlman declares.

Thought Drowning Man Was Joking.

Hammond, Ind., Aug. 30.—George Schofield, a well-known young man of this city, was drowned at the new bathing beach at Indiana Harbor. Schofield was seized with cramps and his cries for help were disregarded by a crowd of bathers, who thought Schofield was playing a practical joke.

Seeking Negro Ruffian.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 30.—Mrs. Jacob Waddle, the wife of a farmer, eight miles south of Crawfordsville, was robbed and assaulted by an unknown negro in the outskirts of the city. The police are scouring the country for the culprit.

Eatonites Go Armed.

Eaton, Ind., Aug. 30.—Nearly every male resident of Eaton has armed himself with revolver, shotgun or rifle, with which to take a shot at burglars infesting this place. Thievery is of almost nightly occurrence. Home talent is under suspicion.

Movement for Soldiers' Monument.

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 30.—As the result of the reunion of old soldiers, it has been determined to erect a monument costing $2,500 in the courthouse square, and the work of canvassing for subscriptions will begin at once.

Labor Day Fares, Pennsylvania Lines

September 5th excursion tickets will be sold from all ticket stations on the Pennsylvania Lines to any station on those lines fifty miles or less from selling point. Return coupons good until September 6th. Inquire of Pennsylvania Lines ticket agents for further information.

New Cure for Rheumatism.

Dr. Colwell's Magic Egyptian Oil cures rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, backache, contracted joints and muscles, stiffened joints, sprains, bruises, cuts and wounds, burns and scalds, soreness of all kinds, frost bites, chilblains, swellings, and spinal affections. It can be taken internally or applied externally. It is a sovereign remedy for diphtheria, sore throat, colds, croup, quinsy and all painful and nervous affections.

Keep Your Blood Pure.

Blood is essentially the fluid of life. It permeates every portion of the body to the remotest tips of the members. Any poisonous or diseased particles that enter into the blood are scattered throughout the entire system and infect all its parts. They are transmitted to succeeding generations and cause disease indefinitely.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Blood Purifier and Tonic cures absolutely and permanently scrofula, skin eruptions, pimples, salt rheum, erysipelas, boils, tumors, tetters, sores, ulcers, ulceration of the stomach and bowels, female weaknesses, dyspepsia, debility, dropsy, syphilis in all its forms, and all diseases arising from hereditary taint or impoverished condition of the blood.

Dr. Colwell's Egyptian Blood Purifier and Tonic is guaranteed to give satisfaction or the purchase price will be refunded. It is for sale at $1.00 a bottle by W. F. PETER DRUG CO.

Taken with Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkader, Iowa, Argus.

This remedy never fails. Keep it in your home, it may save life. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

Subject of General Comment.

New York, Aug. 30.—The decision of David B. Hill to retire from politics after the first of January is a topic of discussion in all of the political headquarters. His friends declare that Hill will still be very much in evidence during the campaign. Governor Odell's only comment was, "I am glad he is going to remain in until January."

Packers Stand Pat.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—"Absolutely nothing," in Mayor Harrison's words, summarized the result of the meeting of the aldermanic committee called to act on the stockyards strike after it had adjourned. The committee does not expect to meet again. They reported that the packers refused to make any concessions.

Placing the Blame.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Aug. 30.—By a unanimous vote the chamber of commerce has declared that M. Bignon, the minister of finance, is responsible for the deterioration of public finances. It is believed that President Nord will accept the decision of the chamber.

Violent Attack of Diarrhoea Cured by Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and Perhaps a Life Saved.

"A short time ago I was taken with a violent attack of diarrhoea and believe I would have died if I had not gotten relief," says John J. Patton, a leading citizen of Patton, Ala. "A friend recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I bought a twenty-five cent bottle and after taking three doses of it was entirely cured. I consider it the best remedy in the world for bowel complaints. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

ASLEEP ON THE TRACK

George Curtis Fatally Hurt and His Companion Seriously.

Rushville, Ind., Aug. 30.—George Curtis, thirty years old, of Brown county, and William Simpson, thirty-three, of Columbus, went to sleep on the J. M. & I. railway tracks, four miles southwest of this city, and were struck by the southbound train. Frank Simpson, who was with them, came to this city, but finding no one awake, he went back and waited until morning. The coroner was sent for and found the men still alive, but Curtis has not regained consciousness and cannot recover. Simpson may get well. They were on their way to Rushville in search of work.

He Got Off Easily.

Ellettsville, Ind., Aug. 30.—Edward O. Soule, who embezzled $54,000 from the Home Savings bank of Iowa Falls, last night pleaded guilty and was sentenced by Judge Evans to eighteen months' imprisonment and to pay all costs.

DeWitt is the Name.

When you go to buy Witch Hazel Salve look for the name DeWitt on every box. The pure, unadulterated Witch Hazel is used in making DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, which is the best salve in the world for cuts, burns, bruises, boils, eczema, and piles. The popularity of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, due to its many cures, has cured numerous worthless counterfeits to be placed on the market. The genuine bears the name E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. Sold by A. J. Pellens and W. F. Peter Drug Co.

Bedford Fair.

On account Lawrence county fair the Southern Indiana railway will sell tickets to Bedford, Aug. 30 to Sept. 3 at one fare for the round trip. Tickets limited to date of sale for return. J. M. Clark, Agent.

WEINSEIMER RESIGNS

Head of Building Trades Alliance Gets Out of the Way.

New York, Aug. 30.—Philip Weinseimer, president of the Building Trades Alliance, a union organization, who has twice been indicted for extortion, has resigned his leadership and William P. Nason, president of the Reliance Labor club of marble cutters, was elected his successor. Nason has been for a long time an active factor in the alliance, but he is regarded as one of the more conservative element. As the cumulative evidence against Weinseimer was made public, opposition to him in the ranks of the alliance became more pronounced, though immediately after his first indictment the delegates gave him a unanimous vote of confidence. Even in his own organization, the journeymen plumbers and gasfitters' union, where he has enjoyed the powers of a dictator, dissatisfaction has grown well nigh into open revolt.

MAKING HIM LOOK PLEASANT.

As an easy thing when we quote our prices on building lumber. A pleasant surprise always awaits the contractor and builder when he visits our yard after getting prices elsewhere and seeing the superior quality of high grade lumber, hard-wood trim, flooring, laths, shingles and that we are selling at bed-rock prices. Our lumber is of high quality, well seasoned and beyond competition, price considered.
